

What does the word essay mean?

customwritings

What does the word essay mean? It came to us from France, and if we talk about his story, it is like it from Latin and means - weighing.

From French translate as a try, sketch. Essay is a statement of the thoughts of the author on a given topic. Looks like copywriting.

It tells the situation, the problems of the topic, the position of a person.

Such a free statement of thoughts reminds the article, but the author is obliged to follow the procedure for presenting information and conclude. After studying the encyclopedia and dictionaries, determining this concept, we can say that they are similar in one.

Essay creative approach to the presentation of the material. It differs from the written because there is some kind of problem, it is asked to think in writing.

It may not be related to Russian literature, not to be an analysis of the works of Russian writers. Depending on the requirements of the essay, it is written to one sheet or 6 sheets. It all depends on the problem under study. What are the signs of the essay?

A certain topic or the question that must be disclosed. Essay can not be a work that reveals several problems.

It discloses the considerations of the author on the topic, but this does not mean that they give comprehensive information.

A new vision of any topic and not an artistic work at all. Essay may be historical, biographical, journalistic, scientific, or be different.

According to the content of the written essay, they define the identity of the author, as he sees the world around, thinks that he feels.

Essays are used in schools and universities. Written in brief form or in the form of a large presentation, if there is a lot of information and the author wants to consider the problem from all sides. The ability to see what others are missing - an advantage in the essay. Following the tests, students are chosen in the university. Home Goal Essay

The goal is called the ability to creatively think, develop the skill of written presentation of thoughts. In the essay, a man arguely proves the point of view, correctly forms the structure of the material presentation, informs the essence of the problem if there are options for its solution.

The text is filled with examples on the topic and draw conclusions for which it is compiled. The difference between essays

It is important to understand than the essay differs from the writings, especially this concerns test tasks in educational institutions. Main differences:

The text emphasis is on the opinion of the author, and not on the assessment of the artistic work.

There is no image and a description of what is happening, the task of the author to convince the reader in the idea and call it to the dialogue.

Essay writing style, paradoxically and aphoristic, it has pictures.

It uses metaphors, comparisons and allegories (cheat. About personification).

The author sets out the perception of the topic, compares and selects examples.

When complying with these rules, the essay will meet all requirements.

Characteristic features of the essay

There are general features of the genre that are described in the dictionaries:

Small volume written text.

No clearly defined boundaries, but the volume should be within three to seven printed text pages.

A clearly defined topic and its disclosure.